

JEN - 2024 PARTICIPANT BIOS

Tanweer AKRAM

Citibank

Dr. Tanweer Akram is a financial economist with over 15 years of experience in financial services, banking, asset management, insurance, economic forecasting, multinational corporations, and international financial institutions.

Dr. Akram is Senior Vice President/Senior Economist at Citibank, where he is responsible for forecasting key macroeconomic variables. Prior to joining Citibank, he served as international economist for Wells Fargo and General Motors. He was the director of global public policy and economics at Thrivent. He has also worked as an economist for Voya Investment Management, Moody's Analytics, the World Bank, Kearney, and the International Monetary Fund.

Dr. Akram has published more than 30 papers in peer-reviewed scholarly journals, such as Applied Economics, Annals of Financial Economics, Asian Development Review, Business Economics, Economic Modelling, Japanese Political Economy, Journal of Asian Business, Journal of Economic Issues, Journal of Emerging Markets, Journal of Post Keynesian Economics, Macroeconomics and Finance in Emerging Market Economies, PLOS ONE, PSL Quarterly Review, Savings and Development, and The American Economist. He has contributed more than 25 papers in the Levy Economics Institute's working paper series.

Dr. Akram earned a BA from Grinnell College, Iowa. He obtained a MS in economics from the London School of Economics, United Kingdom, and a PhD in economics from Columbia University, New York.

Naohiko BABA

Barclays

Naohiko Baba is Chief Economist and Head of Research for Japan, having joined Barclays in January 2024. In this role, he oversees the macroeconomic research function, while leading a research department with coverage of the Japanese economy, JPY rates and FX strategy.

Naohiko began his career in 1992 at the Bank of Japan (BoJ), where he led various divisions including the Financial System Research Division and the Money Markets and Fixed Income Division. He also served as a senior economist of global financial markets at the Bank for International Settlements (BIS). During this period, he published numerous papers on topics such as monetary policy and the yield curve, the FX swap market, hedge fund analysis and corporate finance. From 2011, he worked for 13 years as the Chief Japan Economist at Goldman Sachs

Naohiko graduated from Keio University with a degree in economics. While serving at the BoJ, he earned his PhD in Economics from the University of California Berkeley in 1999, primarily focusing on macroeconomics and international economics.

John BEIRNE

Asian Development Bank

John Beirne is currently Principal Economist at ADB's Macroeconomics Research Division. Specializing in international finance and macroeconomics, he has over 20 years of professional experience as an economist, including more than a decade in central banking. Prior to joining ADB, he was Vice-Chair of Research and a Senior Fellow at the ADB Institute in Japan, where he co-headed the Research Department. Previously, he was Senior Economist at the European Central Bank in Germany. Earlier in his career, he worked in academia and as an economist in the private sector in the UK and Ireland. John's research and policy work focuses on exchange rates, commodities, financial crisis and contagion, capital flow management, and monetary policy transmission. He has published widely in journals, and is a frequent contributor to the media on global macro issues. He holds a PhD in Economics from Brunel University London.

Georg D. BLIND

University of Duisburg-Essen, Germany

Since 2022, Georg is the senior postdoc researcher and lecturer for Japanese Business and Economics at Mercator School of Management, University of Duisburg-Essen (Germany). He graduated from the University of St. Gallen (Switzerland) with a double degree in business (CEMS Master) and economics in 2004. He also holds a degree in Japanese Studies from Heidelberg University (2008) and PhD in economics from Hohenheim University (2015). Before joining UDE he worked as assistant professor and senior researcher at the University of Zurich from 2010. For his research, he was invited as a JSPS research fellow to the University of Kyoto in 2008–2009 and to The University of Tokyo in 2016–2017. Georg has gained ample relevant business experience while working as a consultant for McKinsey & Company (2004–2007) and since starting his own business www.optolingua.com in 2012.

David CHIAVACCI

University of Zurich

David Chiavacci is Professor in Social Science of Japan at the University of Zurich. His specialization is political and economic sociology of contemporary Japan in a comparative perspective. The focus of his current research is on social movements, social inequality and Japan's new immigration and immigration policy. Recent publications include Re-emerging from Invisibility: Social Movements and Political Activism in Contemporary Japan (London: Routledge 2018), Japanese Political Economy Revisited: Abenomics and Institutional Change (London: Routledge 2019), Civil Society and the State in Democratic East Asia: Between Entanglement and Contention in Post High Growth (Amsterdam: Amsterdam University Press 2020), "Japan's Melting Core: Social Frames and Political Crisis Narratives of Rising Inequalities" in Crisis Narratives, Institutional Change and Transformation of the Japanese State (Albany: State University of New York Press, 2021, pp. 25-50), "Social Inequality in Japan" in Oxford Handbook of Japanese Politics (Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2022, pp. 451-470), "China's and Japan's Winding Path to the Refugee Convention: State Identity Transformations and the Evolving International Refugee Regime" in Modern Asian Studies (2023, 57/4: 1415-1447). "Tokyo Olympics 2020: Between Dream and Contention" in Contemporary Japan (2023, 35/1: 3-15).

Naomi DAVIES

British Embassy, Tokyo

Naomi Davies became Counsellor, Economic and Finance at the British Embassy Tokyo in April 2019. In this role she leads the embassy's work on Economics, Public Finances, Financial Services, and Economic Security. Prior to this, and with over fifteen years of experience in the public sector, she has worked in a variety of roles in HM-Treasury and the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, focusing on economic and public spending analysis and advice, EU policy, and international economics. She has previously also worked for the Government of Sierra Leone

Naomi has an MSc in Economics (Development) from the University of Bath.

Alex DRYDEN

SOAS, University of London

Alex is a macroeconomist currently pursuing a PhD in Economics at SOAS with a research focus on sovereign debt and restructurings. Alex is also a Doctoral Research Fellow at the Centre for Sustainable Finance. Prior to this, Alex was a Senior Economist for J.P Morgan Asset Management covering central banks and bond markets. Initially based in London, UK before relocating to New York, USA for three years in 2017. His research publications focused on monetary policy changes, fixed income market analysis and commodity markets.

He was a frequent guest on CNBC, Bloomberg and other major news outlets and has seen his research quoted regularly in the financial press including the Financial Times and the Wall Street Journal.

Alex holds a MSc in Finance (Economic Policy) from the SOAS, University of London, UK. MSc dissertation focused on the factors influencing a countries ability to return to international capital markets following a sovereign default. In addition, he holds a BSc in International Business, Finance and Economics from the University of Manchester, UK and is also a CFA charterholder.

Wenti DU

Akita International University

Wenti Du is an assistant professor in the Global Business Program at Akita International University in Japan. She has been an associate member in the Money and Developing Economies research group at Loughborough University in the United Kingdom as well as the Claremont Institute for Economic Policy Studies in the United States. Her research focuses on open economy macroeconomics, economic and political determinants of financial and economic crises, contagion from financial crises, the performance of financial markets, market efficiency versus behavioral finance.

Andy FILARDO

Hoover Institution

Andy is currently a Visiting Fellow at the Hoover Institution, Stanford University. He previously worked at the BIS from 2002-21 where, most recently, he held the position of Head of Monetary Policy and, prior to that, Head of Economics for Asia and the Pacific. Before joining the BIS, he served on the staff of President Bush's Council of Economic Advisers, was an Assistant Vice President and Economist at the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City, taught as an Adjunct Associate Professor at the University of Chicago Graduate School of Business, was a visitor at the IMF, and has worked with many central banks across the globe during his career. Andy has authored numerous publications in the fields of international monetary policy, macroeconomics, and financial stability. Andy holds a Ph.D. in economics from the University of Chicago.

Govinda FINN
University of Kobe

Govinda is completing a PhD at the University of Kobe, Graduate School of Economics and is a former "Next-Gen Pioneering Research Programme" scholar under the Japan Science and Technology Agency. Govinda previously worked as Japan & Developed Asia Economist at the Research Institute at Aberdeen Standard Investments based in Singapore and the Multi-Asset Investment Team based in Edinburgh. He is on the international advisory board of the Asia Scotland Institute and previously sat on the CityUK's Japan Market Advisory Group.

Govinda has an MA from SOAS, University of London and a BA from Leeds University, which included a year at Darla Moore Business School, University of South Carolina. He holds an Investment Management Certificate.

Takuji FUEKI
Kagawa University

Takuji Fueki is an associate professor at Kagawa University. Before that, he worked at the Bank of Japan for about 17 years. His research encompasses macroeconomics, monetary and fiscal policy, and applied time series, with particular focus on monetary-fiscal policy interactions. He received his Ph.D. in economics from Indiana University, Bloomington.

Shu FUKUYA

Japan Bank for International Cooperation

Dr. Shu Fukuya currently serves as the Deputy Director of the Strategic Research Department at the Japan Bank for International Cooperation (JBIC). In this role, he conducts in-depth research on global political and economic trends and delivers briefings to both internal and external stakeholders. His expertise lies in East Asian international relations. His upcoming publication includes a chapter on economic security in “Asian Security in the Age of Globalization,” to be published by Routledge in spring 2024. He holds a doctorate from Johns Hopkins University SAIS, master’s degrees from Yale University and Waseda University Graduate School of Asia-Pacific Studies, and a bachelor’s degree from Waseda University.

Markus HECKEL

German Institute for Japanese Studies

Markus Heckel holds a PhD in Economics (University of Duisburg-Essen) with a thesis about the Bank of Japan and is a Principal Researcher at the German Institute for Japanese Studies (DIJ) since November 2018. Since 2022 he is also the head of the research group “Sustainability and Resilience”. Prior to joining the DIJ, he has been working in the Department of Microeconomics and Management at the Goethe University Frankfurt from 2012 to 2018. He also taught at Kobe University, Sophia University, Waseda University, University of Mainz, and University Halle-Wittenberg. Dr. Heckel has been invited to research stays, among others, at the Hitotsubashi University and the Institute for International Monetary Affairs (IIMA). His main research interests include macroeconomics, monetary policy, labor economics and sustainability economics. His recent publications include “Unconventional Monetary Policy through Open Market Operations: A Principal Component Analysis” (Asian Economic Papers, with Kiyohiko Nishimura), “Assessing Unconventional Monetary Policy” (RIETI DP, with Tomoo Inoue, Kiyohiko Nishimura, Tatsuyoshi Okimoto) and an edited volume on “The Future of Financial Systems in the Digital Age” (with Franz Waldenberger).

Stefan HEEB

Kanagawa University

Stefan Heeb – a Swiss citizen – has been working as an Assistant Professor at Kanagawa University since 2021.

His thinking has been centred around society, ideas, and languages, with main research axes recently being civilizational studies (“What is ‘the West’?”), Western European language teaching for Japanese mothertongue speakers (“linguistic, societal and civilizational similarities of German, French and English”), as well as socio-economic institutional analysis (particularly focusing on the transition from education to employment in Japan, Switzerland, Germany and France).

He holds triple BAs from the University of Geneva, Switzerland, in Sociology from the Faculty of social sciences (2004-2008), in Philosophy and Russian Studies (2005-2010), and in Japanese and Chinese Studies (2006-2010/2017-2018) from the Faculty of humanities, an MA in Asian Studies (2008-2010 – thesis on Confucian moral philosophy) from the Graduate Institute for International and Development Studies, Geneva, and the University of Geneva, Faculty of humanities, as well as a PhD in Sociology from the University of Geneva, Faculty of social sciences (March 2020).

In 2015/16 and in the summer of 2018, he was a Visiting Research Scholar at the Institute of Social Science at the University of Tokyo, and in the spring semester 2018 a Visiting Research Fellow at the Max Planck Institute for the Study of Societies in Cologne, Germany.

Since 2020, he has been working as a Part-time University Lecturer at Nihon University, and in 2021 he was appointed Assistant Professor at Kanagawa University in Japan (Yokohama, Kanagawa prefecture).

Satoshi IKEDA

Financial Services Agency, the Government of Japan

Satoshi Ikeda, Chief Sustainable Finance Officer and Deputy Commissioner for International Affairs, Financial Services Agency, Government of Japan

Satoshi Ikeda has been the Chief Sustainable Finance Officer (CFSO) since March 2019, and Deputy Commissioner for International Affairs since July 2023, at the Financial Services Agency of Japan (JFSA).

In this role, he covers a wide range of issues concerning sustainable finance which include, among other things, designing Japan's climate transition finance framework based on climate-related financial disclosures aligned with International Sustainability Standards Board (ISSB) standards.

He currently serves as Chair of the Working Group on Transition Plan of the Financial Stability Board (FSB) and Co-chair of the Working Group on Transition Finance of the International Platform on Sustainable Finance (IPSF). He also successfully co-led the Workstream on Climate Disclosures of the FSB, the Workstream on ESG Data and Ratings of the International Organization of Securities Commissions (IOSCO), and the Working Group on Sustainability Disclosure of the International Platform on Sustainable Finance (IPSF).

Taiji INUI

ISO/TC68 Committee Member

Taiji Inui is an expert of payment and settlement system designed and developed BOJ-NET (Bank of Japan Financial Network System) in Japan and CBM-NET (Central Bank of Myanmar Financial Network System) in Myanmar. He is also promoting ADCC (Asia Digital Common Currency) with Professor Wataru Takahashi trying to expand it globally (GDCC). He is a member of ISO/TC68 committees including domestic meetings in Japan, AG5 (Digital Currencies), SC2WG8 (PKI), and ISO20022 Payments SEG & Securities SEG. He established CSIF (Cross-border Settlement Infrastructure Forum) for ASEAN+3 to implement CSD-RTGS linkages. He was a member of BIS Groupe of Computer Experts and Working Party on Security Issues. He established ITDM (IT Directors Meeting) at EMEAP (Executives' Meeting of East Asia-Pacific Central Banks).

Nobuyuki KINOSHITA

Keiaistar Real Estate

Nobuyuki Kinoshita is an adviser at Keiaistar Real Estate. He joined the Ministry of Finance (currently, Financial Services Agency) after graduating from university in 1977, serving as a director at various divisions such as the Financial Market Office, Research Division, Planning and Legal Affairs Division, Commissioner's Secretariat, and secretary-general at Postal Services Privatization Committee, Secretariat of Cabinet, and Securities and Exchange Surveillance Commission. From 2010, he served as an executive director at the Bank of Japan for four years and then served as a senior advisor to Aflac Japan. In 2018, he was appointed President and CEO at Tokyo Financial Exchange Inc until June 2023.

Peter MATANLE

School of East Asian Studies, University of Sheffield

Peter Matanle is Senior Lecturer in Japanese Studies at the University of Sheffield's School of East Asian Studies. Previously he was Associate Professor at Niigata University in Japan. He has degrees from Cambridge, Essex and Sheffield Universities as well as professional qualifications as an investment analyst from the CFA. Peter researches, writes, and teaches about Post-Development East Asia, focusing on depopulation and environment, and sustainable employment in large organisations. Recently he has researched ESG performance in South Korean listed corporations, in cooperation with Nomura investment bank. He has published widely on these subjects and spoken at events such as the 2015 COP21 Paris conference on Climate Change, and the Seoul ESG Investment Conference. In future, he aims to concentrate on developing the discourse on Anthropocene East Asia. Peter's University profile page can be found here, access to his Google Scholar publications page here, his Substack is here, and his LinkedIn and X accounts here and here.

Aina Urano MENNEKEN
PRI

Aina joined PRI in 2022 and now works as a policy specialist with a focus on climate issues, based in Tokyo, Japan. Previously, Aina worked in sustainable finance and ESG in the renewable energy industry, and in sustainability consulting. She holds a Masters in Environmental Science from the University of Tokyo and a BA in Geography from University College London.

Heather MONTGOMERY
International Christian University

Heather Montgomery is a Professor at International Christian University (ICU) in Tokyo, Japan where she teaches courses in the college of liberal arts and graduate school of public policy while pursuing her research interest in financial markets and institutions.

Prior to joining ICU, Dr. Montgomery worked as an economist with JP Morgan Securities in Tokyo, where she was responsible for analysis and forecasting of the Japanese macroeconomy and monetary and fiscal policy. She also has five years of experience with the Asian Development Bank Institute directing policy-oriented empirical research on the financial sector in developing countries in Asia and organizing and conducting regional training for practitioners and policy makers on the financial sector, including microfinance.

Dr. Montgomery holds B.A. (Johns Hopkins University) and Ph.D. (University of Michigan) degrees in economics with a specialization in macroeconomics and international economics and has also studied at the Johns Hopkins University School for Advanced International Studies (SAIS) in Bologna, Italy and the Inter-University Center for Japanese Language Studies in Yokohama, Japan. While completing her Ph.D. dissertation research on the role of regulatory capital and bank credit in the macroeconomy of Japan, she held visiting positions at the Federal Reserve Board of Governors in Washington DC, as well as the Bank of Japan, Ministry of Finance, and Ministry Economy, Trade and Industry in Tokyo.

Maiko MORISHITA

Climate Bonds Initiative

Maiko joined Climate Bonds Initiative as Japan Programme Manager in September 2022, on secondment from the Institute for Global Environmental Strategies (IGES). Recent activities at Climate Bonds include publications on GX policy and transition finance in Japan. At IGES, her work has centered on research and supporting relevant government agencies on sustainable finance policies in Japan. Maiko has over 20 years of experience at the intersection of social/environmental issues and the role of public/private finance. Prior to joining IGES in 2019, she served as the Deputy Executive Director of Oxfam Japan, overseeing policy advocacy work addressing issues including climate and development finance, and inequality. Maiko is a graduate of Keio University, and began her career as an investment banking analyst before transitioning to the development sector.

Nobuko NAGASE

Ochanomizu University

Nobuko Nagase is a professor of Labor Economics and Social Policy at Ochanomizu University in Tokyo. She has written about work and family in the Asian perspective, comparing Japan with other East Asian and Western economies. Her interests include wage structure and work choice, labor market regulations and social security, as well as the tax and other institutional effects on work and gender, marital behavior and child-birth timing. Nagase has conducted empirical studies on childcare supply, public pension, long-term care insurance, childcare leave and other institutional features of the Japanese system. Results of her research have been published in various scholarly peer-reviewed journals, including Japanese Economic Review, Asian Economic Policy Review, Econometric Review, and . She obtained her Ph.D. in 1995 and her B.A. in 1989 from the University of Tokyo, Economics Department. From 2020 to 2023, Nagase was a principal investigator for a collaborative project with Oxford University on “Exploring AI’s Potential to Transform Domestic Work in Japan and the UK”, which was funded by competitive fund of JST-RISTEX. Nagase was appointed as a Member of Science Council of Japan and has held various governmental appointments such as the Special Committee on Council for Gender Equality at the Japanese Cabinet Office, the Japanese Tax Commission, the Statistics Commission and the Medical Council.

Jouchi NAKAJIMAHitotsubashi University

Jouchi Nakajima is a professor at Hitotsubashi University. He worked at the Bank of Japan for about 15 years and moved to his current position in 2022. He is also a research adviser at the Monetary Affairs Department at the Bank. He was seconded at the Bank for International Settlements (BIS) as a visiting senior economist from 2016 to 2019. His main research focuses on empirical analyses about monetary policies, Bayesian time series models for econometrics and finance. Jouchi received his Ph.D. and M.S. in Statistical Science at Duke University, and M.A. in Economics at University of Tokyo.

Uwe NEBGENDeutsche Bundesbank

Uwe Nebgen became Head of the Deutsche Bundesbank's Representative Office in Tokyo in November 2019.

After his graduation from Hamburg University he started serving the Deutsche Bundesbank as an economist. In his career he has assumed various responsibilities within the German central bank in the areas of monetary policy implementation, financial stability and international economics. Between 2000 and 2003, he was seconded to the German Permanent Representation to the EU where he worked as Financial Councillor.

Enrico PULIERI

SOAS, University of London

Enrico Pulieri, PhD Candidate and Research Assistant in Economics at SOAS – University of London. Teacher of Macroeconomic Analysis at SOAS and of International Economics at King's College London. Youth Policy Maker for the Italian Government as a Board Member of the Italian Youth Council, where he is delegate for University and Research. His research is focused on the fiscal and monetary policies related to the Public Debt Management Sustainability in the European countries and in Japan, using the theories of Toporowski, Kalecki and Keynes.

Sofia M. REBREY

MGIMO University

Sofia is an Associate Professor (Docent) at World Economy Department, MGIMO-University. Her research interests concern economics of gender, equality of opportunities and Japanese economy. She holds a Master in Regional studies, specialization Asia Pacific and PhD in Economics from MGIMO University and a Diploma in Data Science (Python).

She also works Deputy Chief Editor and executive secretary of a scientific journal World and National Economy, a founder and a supervisor of a student club MGIMO.Women.

She develops Axial Institutions Index that aims to measure gender equality of opportunities and has an extensive number of papers that describes the concept (for example, Rebrey SM (2023) Gender inequality in Russia: Axial institutions and agency. Russian Journal of Economics 9(1): 71-92. <https://doi.org/10.32609/j.ruje.9.94459>)

Marcela RIVE DE MONTI

Universidad Politécnica de Madrid

Marcela RIVA de Monti holds an architectural degree from Universidad de Buenos Aires with working experience in Buenos Aires, Tokyo, Singapore and Madrid. Currently she is working on her PhD thesis at the Universidad Politécnica of Madrid. Titled “A New Geography of Marginalization: Examining the Transformation of Tokyo and Buenos Aires from 1990-2019”, her research explores the urban vacant land, challenges, correlations and dependencies between city shrinkage and urban decline framed within the context of globalization and post-growth. In particular, she has a keen interest in developmental states, urban planning policies, real estate investment, inequality and informality in the city, housing policies.

Toshitaka SEKINE

Hitotsubashi University

Toshitaka Sekine is Professor of Asian Public Policy Program at Hitotsubashi University. Prior to taking up the current position in 2020, he spent 33 years as an economist at the Bank of Japan as well as at the BIS and the IMF. At the Bank of Japan, he served as Director-General of Research and Statistics Department (a chief economist position of the Bank of Japan) for four years and Director-General of Institute for Monetary and Economic Studies for another year. His research includes inflation dynamics, exchange-rate pass-through, corporate investment and bank lending behavior. He received a BA from the University of Tokyo and a DPhil from the University of Oxford.

Takeshi SHINOHARA

Bank of Japan

Takeshi Shinohara is Associate Director and Economist, Institute for Monetary and Economic Studies, the Bank of Japan.

Prior to his current position, he was Economist of Macro Modeling Group and Economic Assessment and Projection Group in the Research and Statistics Department and Analyst of Financial System Research Team in the Financial System and Bank Examination Department. His research covers various empirical topics including Japanese economy, price dynamics and financial stability. He obtained an M.A. in Engineering from University of Tokyo in 2016.

Yoshikatsu SHINOZAWA

Graduate School of Business Administration, Hitotsubashi University

Yoshikatsu, a Tokyo native is a Professor in the Graduate School of Business Administration at Hitotsubashi University, where he has been dedicated to teaching and conducting research on finance since October 2020. Prior to his current position, Yoshikatsu held tenure positions as a lecturer at Loughborough University and as a senior lecturer at SOAS, University of London, until his departure following his personal Brexit in 2020.

Yoshikatsu holds an M.B.A from the London Business School (1994) and a Ph.D. from the University of Nottingham (2004). Before transitioning to academia, he amassed nine years of experience in Tokyo and London, serving as a fund manager in a Japanese asset management firm.

With a focus on asset management firms and their fund products, Yoshikatsu's research interests have evolved to encompass corporate governance and corporate disclosure in Japan. His dedication to advancing knowledge in these areas has led to several grants, including support from the Japan Foundation Endowment Committee (UK), the British Academy, and Grants-in-Aid for Scientific Research (Japan).

Masaaki SHIRAKAWA

Masaaki Shirakawa was previously Governor of the Bank of Japan. He was appointed as Governor in April 2008, and left the Bank in March 2013. He was also Vice-Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Bank for International Settlements (BIS) between January 2011 and March 2013. Currently, he is distinguished guest professor at Aoyama-Gakuin University and a member of the Group of Thirty—a private, non-profit, international body composed of senior policymakers from central banks, supervisory agencies, the financial sector, and academia.

Masaaki Shirakawa joined the Bank of Japan in 1972. At the Bank, he held various key positions, including Executive Director in charge of monetary policy. Other professional experiences include professorship at the Kyoto University School of Government from July 2006 to March 2008.

Masaaki Shirakawa was born in September 1949. He studied economics at the University of Tokyo (B.A.) and at the University of Chicago (M.A.).

Pierre SIKLOS

Wilfrid Laurier University

Pierre Siklos is Professor Emeritus of Economics at Wilfrid Laurier University and Fellow at the Balsillie School of International Affairs. He is a CIGI senior fellow who specializes in macroeconomics, with an emphasis on the study of inflation, central banks and financial markets. He also conducts research in applied time series analysis. He has also been a visiting lecturer at several universities in Europe and North America as well as in Australia and New Zealand. His research has been funded by domestic and international agencies. He was Wilfrid Laurier University's (WLU's) University Research Professor for the academic year 2000–2001, and the director of the Viessmann European Research Centre at WLU from 2005 to 2014. In 2008, Pierre was chair of the Bundesbank Foundation of International Monetary Economics at the Freie Universität Berlin in Germany. He is a guest professor at the University of Münster in Germany, a research fellow of the South African Reserve Bank and Stellenbosch University in South Africa and was the Fondation France-Japon/ Banque de France Fellow for 2021–2022.

Takeki SUNAKAWA
Hitotsubashi University

Takeki Sunakawa is currently an associate professor at the Graduate School of Economics, Hitotsubashi University. His research fields are macroeconomics, monetary economics, and computational economics. Previously he was at Kobe University, the University of Tokyo, and the Bank of Japan. He received a Ph.D. in Economics at the Ohio State University. He has publications in professional economics journals such as Quantitative Economics, Journal of Economic Dynamics and Control, and Journal of Money, Credit and Banking.

Wataru TAKAHASHI
Osaka University of Economics

Wataru Takahashi is currently Professor at Osaka University of Economics, Research Fellow of Research Institute of Economics and Business Administration (RIEB) at Kobe University and Research Fellow at Nissay Research Institute.

He obtained M.Phil in Economics from Oxford University in 1984. Prior to the current academic position, he had worked at the Bank of Japan for 35 years. He spent most of his career in academic research sections. His major is Macroeconomics and Monetary economics. The political economics of central bank is his main research interest. He also worked for the international affairs as an advisor to Governor from 2001 to 2006. His responsibility then was the financial cooperation among central banks in East Asia and the economic research on global economy. He attended many international meetings such as G20, EMEAP (the Executives' Meeting of East Asia-Pacific Central Banks), ASEAN+3 and ASEM. He also reported the global economy at Monetary Policy Meetings of the Bank of Japan. In 2006, he was appointed as Director General of Institute for Monetary and Economic Studies, an academic think-tank, at the Bank of Japan.

He wrote several academic papers and chapters of the books. His main works are;

“The Japanese Financial Sector: From high growth to lost decades: Economic transitions from the perspective of market economy orientation” in East Asian Capitalism: Diversity, Change and Continuity, Oxford University Press, 2012

“Financial Cooperation in East Asia: Potential Future Directions,” in Volume2: Trade, Investment and Economic Integration, World Scientific, 2014

“Central Bank Independence in a Changing Environment” in Monetary Theory in the Age of Uncertainty, Springer Briefs in Economics, 2021

Jan TOPOROWSKI

SOAS, University of London

Jan Toporowski is Professor of Economics and Finance at SOAS University of London. His research is concentrated on monetary theory and policy, finance, and the work of Michał Kalecki. Before becoming an academic he worked in fund management, international banking, and central banking. He has been a consultant for the United Nations Development Programme, the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, the UN Economic Commission for Africa and the Economist Intelligence Unit. His most recent book is Interest and Capital the monetary economics of Michał Kalecki (Oxford University Press 2022).

Noriyuki Tsunogaya Ph.D (Hitotsubashi University, Graduate School of Commerce) is a Professor in the Accounting Department of Graduate School of Business Administration at Hitotsubashi University, Japan. His research program focuses mainly on International Accounting and Auditing. He has presented and published in many areas including International Accounting, Auditing, Financial Reporting, and Accounting History.

He has published in both academic journals and professional magazines. His knowledge has influenced on the broader Japanese community as well as academic community. He has published two monographs entitled "Lease Accounting" (co-author with N. Sato, Zeimu-Keiri Kyokai: Tokyo, 2009, pp.1-251) and "Present Value Accounting" (Moriyama-Shoten: Tokyo, 2009, pp.1-318). He has received the "Best Book Award (Ohta-Kurosawa Award)" from the Japan Accounting Association by this book. He also has published many academic journals and got the "Best Paper Award" from the Japan Accounting Association by the paper entitled "Lower of Cost or Market and Impairment of Assets" (Kaikai, Moriyama-Shoten: Tokyo, Vol.161, No.1, 2002, pp.82-97).

Besides, he has written international refereed journals such as "The Case for Economic and Accounting Dualism: Towards Reconciling the Japanese Accounting System with the Global Trend of Fair Value Accounting" (with H. Okada and C. Patel, Accounting, Economics, and Law, Berkeley Electronic Press, Vol.1, Iss.2, 2011, pp.1-53), "The Complex Equilibrium Paths towards International Financial Reporting Standards and the Anglo-American Model: The Case of Japan" (with P. Chand, The Japanese Accounting Review, Vol.2, 2012, pp.117-137), "Adoption of IFRS in Japan: Challenges and Consequences" (with A. Hellmann, and S. Scagnelli, Pacific Accounting Review, Vol.25, No.1, 2015, pp.1-27), "Controversies over the Development of Japanese Modified International Standards (JMIS)" (with Y. Tokuga, Korean Accounting Review, Vol.40, No.2, 2015, pp.299-335), "Economic Impact of Capitalization of Operating Leases: Evidence from Japan"(with M. Kusano and Y. Sakuma, Corporate Ownership and Control Journal, Vol.12, No.4, 2015, pp.838-850), "Judgments of Auditors on "Principles" versus "Guidance" in Lease Accounting Standard: Evidence from Japan" (with S. Sugahara and P. Chand, Asian Review of Accounting, Vol.24, No.3, 2015, pp.362-386), "Economic Consequences of Changes in the Lease Accounting Standard: Evidence from Japan" (with M. Kusano and Y. Sakuma, Journal of Contemporary Accounting and Economics, Vol.12, No.1, 2016, pp.73-88), "Issues Affecting Decisions on Mandatory Adoption of International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) in Japan" (Accounting, Auditing & Accountability Journal, Vol.29, No.5, 2016, pp.828-860), "The Impact of Social Influence Pressures, Commitment, and Personality on Judgments by Auditors: Evidence from Japan" (with S. Sugahara and P. Chand, Journal of International Accounting Research, Vol.16, No.3, 2017, pp.17-34), "The Impact of External Pressures (Gaiatsu) and Internal Pressures (Naiatsu) on Japan's Accounting Reforms since the Late 1990s" (With C. Patel, Accounting, Auditing & Accountability Journal, Vol.33, No.4, 2020, pp.857-886), "Using Arguments and Myths to Lobby over Controversial Accounting Issues: Evidence from Japan" (with A. Hellmann, Pacific Accounting Review, Vol.32, No.3, 2020, pp.355-390), "Foreign-language effect and professionals' judgments on fair value measurement: Evidence from Germany and the United Kingdom" (with A. Hellmann and C. Patel, Journal of Behavioral and Experimental Finance, Vol.30, 2021, pp.1-10). and "Interaction effect of Foreign Language and Obedience Pressure on Ethical Judgment in Accounting: Evidence from Japan" (with S. Satoshi and J. Kim, Journal of International Accounting Research, Vol.22, No.1, 2023, pp.83-98).

He has given presentations at various associations and other international accounting conferences including the American Accounting Association, the European Accounting Association, the Korean Accounting Association, and the Asian Pacific Conference on International Accounting Issues. He has invited some leading accounting scholars, such as Professors Philomena Leung, Chris Patel, Parmod Chand, Andreas Hellmann, Peipei Pan, and Meiting Lu, in Japan and coordinated workshops so as to diffuse their ideas to the Japanese academic society. He has got several Grants and Fellowships from the Japan and US governments and studied as a visiting Fulbright scholar at University of Washington (USA) in 2009 and as a visiting academics at Macquarie University (Australia) in 2010.

Ulrich VOLZ

SOAS, University of London

Ulrich Volz is Professor of Economics and Director of the Centre for Sustainable Finance at SOAS, University of London. He is also a Senior Research Fellow at the German Institute of Development and Sustainability (IDOS), Visiting Professor at the London School of Economics and Political Science, and Honorary Professor of Economics at the University of Leipzig. Ulrich is co-founder and chair of the Japan Economy Network, academic director of the University Network for Strengthening Macroeconomic Resilience to Climate and Environmental Change, co-chair of the Global Research Alliance for Sustainable Finance and Investment, co-chair of the T20 Brazil Task Force on Reforming the International Financial Architecture, and a member of the CEPR Sustainable Finance Research and Policy Network. He serves on the Sustainable Finance Advisory Committee of the German Federal Government, the Economic Advisory Network of the German Federal Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development, the advisory panel of the Glasgow Financial Alliance for Net Zero (GFANZ), the International Advisory Committee for the Climate/SDGs Debt Swap Mechanism of the UN Economic and Social Commission for Western Asia (UN ESCWA), and the Alliance for Financial Inclusion's Research Advisory Council for Inclusive Green Finance. Ulrich was Banque de France Chair at the École des Hautes Études en Sciences Sociales (EHESS) in Paris, and taught at Peking University, Kobe University, Hertie School of Governance, Freie Universität Berlin, Central University of Finance and Economics, and the Institute of Developing Economies (IDE-JETRO). He spent stints working at the European Central Bank and European Bank for Reconstruction and Development and held visiting positions at the University of Oxford, University of Birmingham, Aoyama Gakuin University, ECB, Bank Indonesia, Bank Negara Malaysia and the Asian Development Bank Institute, where he previously served on the Advisory Council. Ulrich was part of the UN Inquiry into the Design of a Sustainable Financial System and a member of the NGFS-INSPIRE Study Group on Biodiversity and Financial Stability. He has acted as an advisor to several governments, central banks, international organisations and development agencies on matters of macroeconomic policy, sustainable finance and development.

Hiroaki Richard Watanabe is a Professor of comparative and international political economy in the Department of International Relations at Ritsumeikan University. Before Ritsumeikan, he worked as a Lecturer at the University of Sheffield, UK, and as a Kiriya Professor at the University of San Francisco. His main research areas are the politics of labor market reforms and the union response to the increasing precarious work, Japan's economic stagnation and a lack of digitalization, and the politics of regional economic integration in East Asia and the Asia Pacific.

He is the author of two books - "Labour Market Deregulation in Japan and Italy: Worker Protection under Neoliberal Globalisation" (2014, Routledge) and "The Japanese Economy" (2020, Agenda Publishing / Columbia University Press). He is also the author of several articles related to comparative and international political economy.

He received a D.Phil. (Ph.D.) from the University of Oxford, an MA from Yale University, and a BA from the University of Tokyo.

